Pedigree Verification Process

Verification of generations is done using copies of registration certificates and/or certified pedigrees issued by acceptable registries as listed above. In some instances, NAMASCUSA may already have these documents and therefore some of the dogs in a pedigree may already be verified. However, in many instances NAMASCUSA does not have any information on dogs within a pedigree especially if the dog is registered with another registry. NAMASCUSA does not have access to other registries' databases. Therefore, the only way verification can occur is to have an official document, as described above, to verify not only a dog's registered name and registration number but to also verify that dog's connection (parent, grandparent, or great-grandparent) to your dog.

Impact of having less than 3 generations

Dogs that have fewer than three generations verified will remain in FSS.

Dogs enrolling in AKC/FSS may have 1, 2 or 3 generations verified in their pedigree. Dogs with information missing from their three generation pedigree will be enrolled in AKC/FSS with fewer than 3 generations verified. These dogs are eligible to participate in all companion and performance events and may be used in a breeding program if breeding rights have been given. However, these dogs cannot participate in the conformation show ring and therefore cannot earn conformation titles. Their offspring can move to full recognition once three generations of pedigree has been established.

Dogs with three generations verified will be fully recognized.
